

Struggle No More? - Kefentse Xeexkat

As I build with the grassroots community the vibe remains the same.

If you gon' give up on African liberation, then check in that African name!

People who's contributions dint equate to 30 years,
to the African who lay's down his spear
I shed a Malcolm bloody tear!

We dint think about reinvention.
To the cries and demands of the youth we don't pay attention.

To busy lettin' ego's get in the way.
Your organization is 30 years old; Why still leadin it today?

And where is the cry of the African Queen?
We need to hear the sistas LE LE LE to bring the warriors on the scene.

And a not to my elders, teach me what you know.
If you don't think I'm worthy what about my sista or my bro.

We need those lessons so we can bring about your dreams.
Ain't you tired of Africans being rapped, robbed and schemed?
Ain't y'all tired of chasin' this amerikkkan dream?
Gimme the info so I can summon ALL Africans to my team.

Kefentse omo Ganga Zumba omo Shango!!

In remembrance of Baba Yale and all those who
fell along the way,
we gon continue this struggle just we can see a brighter day.

To all Ogun's omo's, to my Wolof Xeexkat's, front and center weapons ready for attack!

The day we ever give up on struggle the whole world is in trouble.
Malcolm I'll never put those words in my mouth
because I love you.

I've seen it a thousand times you standing on
that stage,
automatic weapons blazin' and I believe a sawed-off gage.
The enemies of Black Liberation thought they turned the page,
but imma keep it movin' with yo love and yo rage.

The struggle is over when we win, I thought you
brothas and sistas knew,
you can't give up on the struggle unless you-
never had it in you!!
